Second Biennial Alaska Native Health Research Conference

CONFERENCE PURPOSE AND GOALS

This conference is a premier forum for Native consumers to discuss the issues impacting past, present and future research. Conference goals are to:

1. Provide a forum for disseminating health research results.
2. Promote understanding about health research, why it is important to Alaska Natives, and how Alaska Natives benefit from health research.
3. Provide a forum where tribal leaders and health researchers can meet and discuss various issues of concern regarding research.
4. Provide a forum for Alaska Native undergraduate and graduate students to become better informed about research in Alaska and how to get involved.
5. Provide an opportunity for tribal leaders and Alaska Native students to network with the health research community.
